Swift Expands Partnership with Uniting and Showcases Swift TV at Australia's Premier Aged Care Conference

- Uniting to install Swift at two new sites, bringing total Uniting sites to 25.
- Swift TV launched at the Ageing Australia National Conference, reaching 2,500+ delegates and generating leads for approx. 12,000 screens.
- Swift short-listed in Future of Ageing Awards 2025, for Best Business Technology and Best Consumer Technology categories.

Swift has signed new agreements with Uniting NSW for the Berry and Eden aged care communities, increasing the total number of Uniting sites with Swift solutions to 25.

Uniting is transforming residential aged care through its Household Living model - a person-centred approach that replaces traditional residential aged care settings with smaller, home-like communities. The model empowers residents to live with greater choice, connection, and purpose.

Supported by Uniting's Leisure and Lifestyle Team, each community promotes meaningful activity and a strong sense of belonging. This model is delivering clear benefits — improved resident experience, stronger staff engagement, and sustainable operational outcomes.

Swift is also pleased to announce the successful launch of Swift TV to an audience of more than 2,500 delegates at Australia's largest Aged Care industry event, the Ageing Australia National Conference in October 2025, generating strong interest and leads representing approximately 12,000 screens.

Swift TV offers the Aged Care sector a customisable user interface and user experience co-developed with key industry stakeholders via a research project lead by Dr Katherine Heathcote and involving leading Aged Care providers. The outcome of this research project feed into the development of the user interface and experienced that has recently been shortlisted for the Future of Ageing Award and features within the new Swift TV product.

Swift TV has also been designed to support providers with upcoming changes, including the Higher Everyday Living Fee (HELFF) within the new Aged Care legislation effective 1 November 2025 - highlighting Swift's readiness to meet evolving market needs.

Swift TV Pre-orders opened in August 2025, with first installations scheduled for early 2026.

Swift CEO Brian Mangano commented, "We're very pleased to be extending our valued partnership with Uniting, with two new sites coming on board - bringing the total to 25 Uniting sites. We're also delighted that our commitment to research and development, driven by close collaboration with industry, is being recognised through the early uptake of Swift TV by leading aged care providers and its shortlisting in major industry awards. This is powerful validation of our vision - delivering a product that provides an exceptional user experience while driving stronger business and social outcomes."
